LATEST NEWS OF SALVATION FIGHTING ON THE FIELD

WALKERVILLE
Captain Scott, Lieutenant Bradford

Successful Harvest Festival Effort

The Comrades of this Corps have a lot to thank God for especially the success of the Harvest Festival Effort.

At a special Soldiers' meeting a number of the Comrades gave short, but very interesting talks on such subjects as "Practical Religion," "Why Christians Don't Beggar," and other subjects which had a bearing on the spiritual effort.

The visit of Staff Captain and Mrs. Penfold and a number of Bandmen from Windsor proved interesting and inspiring.

The conclusion of the Effort came with the gathering of the produce for the sale, and a special Harvest Festival Sunday. On Monday evening after a programme by the Young People, the produce was sold, the sum of $94 being received.

This made the total amount $65.88, which speaks well for the people of this district, and shows their appreciation of the work of the Army.

MONTRÉAL II
Captain and Mrs. Bowler

On Sunday, September 25th, the morning and afternoon meetings were led by our own Officers. In the afternoon a special service dedicated to God and the Army, the inferior and superior Captains Brown, the Vice Captain, who at one time was a Bandman here, was promoted to glory from the American field a short time ago.

Captain and Mrs. Bowler held a night meeting, a report of which will shortly appear.

On Wednesday the Hall was filled for the Harvest Demonstration at which Adjutant Beccoll presided.

SUMMERSIDE
Captain McLaren, Lieut. Pockeck

Mrs. Brigadier Green was with us recently and gave a lecture on the Social Work of the Salvation Army. The open-air meeting last night was well attended. On Exhibitor night we held our festival.

Our Bandmen are busy collecting for Harvest Festival and are sure they will renew their tugs. We have started a Young People's meeting—Ave Wilson.

TRENTON, N. S.
Captain Parry and Frost

On a recent Sunday the comrades and friends of Trenton Corps paid farewell to Captain C. Worthville. The Candidate was the Senior Sergeant-Major and was a faithful worker and will be greatly missed.

BISHOP'S FALLS
Adjutant and Mrs. Stockland

We have had the joy of seeing a number seek Salvation. The Little Boys and Girls are doing well under Captain and Mrs. Morris, Captain Morris and Miss Mrs. Morris. This band is progressing under Bandmaster Dearing. The Huts League is also doing a good work. There are twenty-six members on the roll at present.

We recently had a visit from Com. Captain Stockland and we had the joy of seeing backsliders returning to God.

HANOVER
Captain Nohr, Lieut. Ford

Major and Mrs. Gross Pay a Visit

We had a visit from Major and Mrs. Cox, Major who once a Cadet in our corps, but a very distinguished member of the Army's operations is still in the country. His wife is a Miss Gaylor, and Major is to us very steady & reliable.

On Sunday afternoon we had a Lieutenant Internment, Major Paying a Visit. The first assembly of nearly a Soldier and our Corps were all gathered at the meeting.

We finished the day with a service at the mercer's hall, where a young girl, being led out by our Corps Detach. —P. Rehman

TORONTO I
Adjutant and Mrs. Gross

On a recent Sunday a sincere and fervent prayer prevailed in the school room.

Before the address a man came and said he had been a widow for many years, but now he was married again.

He told his wife in his presence, "My heart will be at rest when I go to my Father in Heaven." He had no son or daughter, and though I go back alone, I can truly say "I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me."

The prayer meeting was a picture forward.—A. Stet

LINDSAY
Captain and Mrs. Pollock

Our Harvest Festival target has been announced. We had a sale of robes and suits and the Jesters were dressed in their costumes.

Young people were raised and the band played a short while.

Acting Bandmaster W. Stubbs and his wife are now presenting the latest music to our audience.

TRENTON, ONT.
Captain and Mrs. Bell

"Trenton for Jesus" is the slogan of the comrades of the Corps who this and every comrade is praying for world salvation.

For four months the officers have been working for Jesus and have been successful.

We rejoice over another wanderer returning to God.

AT THE BACK OF THE CORPS REPORT

In addition to the corps whose names appear in this issue there are throughout Canada, East and West, hundred and fifty other centres which Salvationists are actively engaged in the fight against Sin. The book of these reports, which are necessarily condensed, often tell very much alike, is a vast network of organized and devoted effort, in which many hundreds of Salvations are engaged, and which gives abundant cause for thanks to God for tokens of grace brought in our days.

NEW MARKET
Captain and Mrs. Clark

On Sunday, October 10th, the meetings were conducted by the Corps Officers. The Sunday meeting God came very near, and the Comrades came forward for an acceleration.

At night there was a good attendance. Many comrades rallied as to the power of the Blood of Christ to save them, and the sustaining love which can complete victory over sin possible.

We rejoiced over another wanderer returning to God.

SPRINGDALE
Adjutant and Mrs. Miller

Women's lower road meetings, Oct. 10th, Sunday night, Candidate Bertie Williams, travelled to the Springdale Garrison. The meeting was most impressive. We had the joy of some eight souls seek Jesus, among the wife.

CHESTER (TORONTO)
Lieutenants Langford and Day

On Sunday, October 10th, we welcomed Lieut. Ding, Captain Bell and others in to Japan in a short visit.

Lieut. Ding spoke at night. A spirit was manifested throughout the day and two souls were won for Christ.

ARMY OFFICER GOES UP IN AN AEROPLANE

Captain Goodwin of Newmarket, N. B., recently availed himself of the kind offer of an aviator to take a flight in his machine for the purpose of distributing announcements of special meetings. The Captain may be seen on the right, ready to respond with bells in his hand.

GOING BACK ALONE

A TOUCHING EXAMPLE OF SELF-SACRIFICE TO THE ARMY'S LARGE-HEARTED IDEAL

At the great Missionary Pageant conducted in the Auditorium, twenty-four hundred and twenty Officers farmed for service in the East, some touching examples of self-sacrifice to the Army's large-hearted ideal were revealed in the testimonies of various converts.

The following extract from the "Bell's War Cry" will be of especial interest to comrades in this Territory, seeing that Adjutant Mrs. Thorne is a Canadian.

A wave of unemployment swept over the huge gathering when the General called forward Adjutant Mrs. Thorne. It was explained that Mrs. Thorne and her husband had abandoned their home in the City Authorities, having no place to live, and other places had been offered men with a few days' work, rather than having the "bread line" of charity.

By this means it is hoped that the winter months will be better over.

Everybody is hoping for a reversal of trade next spring.

Visit to Moncton

"My journey to Moncton, a little town in the Province of

New Brunswick,

was the beginning of a new chapter in my life.

From Moncton, Colonel, you began your journey to your home?

"Yes, and I found him

at Lewis, and by crossing the ferry I was at the City of Quebec, and was pleased to see the friendly face of Ensign and his wife.

The Ensign and his good wife have just taken charge of the Metropole

Hotel, thus ending her life in the upper rooms of Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Hill, the police say, plunged into the Canadian rapids three years ago and was rescued at the late of the year.

After a long stay in New York, in order to get a job, she became the Shodder.

"I was pleased to be able to conclude a meeting at the French Community under Captain and Mrs. Bowler and I am sure that the start and progress before me.

We have here a large Metropole and also the war period it issued Banquetts, and the like.

During the winter months we had a cordon of gards

along the river bank.

A message was sent to the Army authorities asking if they could have a large hall built.

They agreed to do so.

It was evident, however, that the French language

was the great attractive factor.

Adjutant Antoinette

had a large audience.

She was invited to speak up her impressions.

"There were ninety and nine that safely lay."

"There is a splendid Club attached to the hotel, and it is open to all of our members.

"Wonderful place I see."

"Love revealing love I see."

"Was nung over and over again."

The Club also got to her feet and urged her to speak.

After I had asked them to do so, I had them to do so.

They were very glad to do so.

FISHING VARIETIES

Fool Fishers!

We remember one infinitesimal picture of Phil May's, in which he depicted a lunatic leaning over the well of an asylum, while on the bank of the river below him pines fishing, rod in hand, is the typical fisherman. "What are you doing?" says the lunatic.

"Fishing," is the curt reply.

"Been there long?"

"All day," replies the fisherman.

"Caught nothing?"

"No."

"Come in here," replies the lunatic. "Now our sympathy is with the fisherman, for he has had catches on occasions, and we remember that the disciples toiled all night and caught nothing. Even afterward they caught "fish" which badly broke their net.

"But I will make you to become fishers"—"If you follow Me"—is enough for us as for them.

We are willing to be counted insane fool-fishers for Christ's sake. The catch is sure—if we fish under His directions.

The Successful Fisherman.

He embodies all the characteristics which it is a duty for every soul-winner to have. Patience, knowledge of the interests of his fish, knowledge of the bait that will attract fish, faith in things unseen, skill, delicacy of touch, refusal to be disengaged, unlimited perseverance, and conviction that he has not yet exhausted the possibilities of life—not all these and more make the true fisherman.

The great secret was this, that whatever bait you used . . . there was one thing you must have upon your hook, namely, YOUR HEART! — Burroughs.

The Daring Fisherman.

Peter the Fisherman, had always been a daring, impulsive boy and man. Now (after Pentecost) he grew fat, more drowsy, less courageous, and never over delved his Master. It was he who first boldly stood before many thousands of people to tell the story of his Master's life and death. His pluck and determination carried him over mountains and river, through floods and across seas, to face robbers and kings with equal courage as his Shepherd's Queen—to feed His lambs.

At last, when the hair of the young fisherman had gone grey in the great work, the Romans took him prisoner to crucify him as his Master had been crucified. Peter's mind dashed back to that day when, afraid of being crucified, he had shouted: "I know not the Man!" So he said now: "I am not worthy to be crucified as my Master—Crucify me head downward!" And thus did he.

Among the Knights of the Splendid Quest, this Hero stands high. He ranks nobly in "...That obituary of God's the soldier saints."

WHAT'S IN OUR NAME

MEANING AND PURPOSE OF THE SALVATION ARMY

By THE FOUNDER

(Concluded from last week)

COMBINATION gives the power which comes from example. Many imitate. The deeds of daring and self-sacrifice done here will be talked about, and printed about, and told about. Men emulate. In every company there will be spirits more courageous and daring than others, and all through the 5,000. There will lead, and the rest will follow.

One Plan—One Leader

But such combination or unities of action will only be possible with unities of direction. If all are to act together all must act on one plan, and therefore all must act under one head. Twenty different heads, according to the nature and experience and history of heads, will produce twenty different plans with twenty different methods for their accomplishment, clashing and blighting each other. There can then be no difference of opinion, of feelings of feeling of action. Disagreement, confusion, separation, destruction.

Then, of course, there must be obedience. If the 5,000 are to act together, and act on one plan, it will be self-evident that it can only be effected by implicit obedience. If it were otherwise—if the Officers of this Salvation Army can only express their wishes for those composing it to act in some particular manner, which said wishes can be received or rejected as they may appear pleasant, then anything like corrala and foreseen notion is impossible. But if it is known and assured that the 5,000 will act as directed, then the most important measure can be devised and executed with exactest certainty.

Need of Disciplines

And then, you must have discipline. Those who keep the Commandments and who excel in service must be rewarded and those who are disobedient must be degraded, punished, excluded.

And lastly, having organized and developed and disciplined your army, it must be used, employed, and that to the uttermost. Nothing demoralizes Salvation Soldiers more than inactivity. Idleness is stark ruin, and the Devil's own opportunity. Push forward, never heed the number or opposition of your foes, or the impossibility of overcoming them. Your Salvation Army has been made to accomplish the impossible, and conquer that which to human calculations cannot be overcome.

Then, of course, you will train the

OPTIMISM

Be bright! Be cheerful! Wear a sunny smile. Refuse to let the trifling worries of today mar your peace and joy. The dark cloud may never burst. The distant bridge may never be crossed. The problem, insoluble though it may appear, will be solved. Your cheerfulness may lift a burden from some one, beginning the day with a load of care. Habits of optimism will prepare the soul for Heaven, the centre of the optimistic life.

Orders and Regulations

For Soldiers of the Salvation Army

No. 35.—The Duties of Masters to Their Servants.

Masters must always remember that God holds them responsible for doing unto their servants as they do unto them if their servants do unto them what they do unto them. If, then, the masters, were the servants, and the servants were the masters,

This means that masters and mistresses shall pay their servants reasonable wages, giving them a fair share in the profits of the labor. A master has not done his duty to his servant by simply paying him wages if he can well afford to pay more.

This means a reasonable demand for labor on the part of the master, but his servants need more work and longer hours than servants can render consistent with health and other requirements.

This means that masters shall deal fairly and honestly with their servants, irrespective of the return a profit and labor the servants may make. That is to say, suppose I have a servant who does not do all the work he is able to do and that he ought to do, that is no excuse for you not paying him as fairly as you reasonably can.

UNHEALTHY TOPICS

Talk about anything rather than your ailments, or those of your friends; it was the advice offered by a bright woman to those of her sex who told damage that may result from carelessness with fire in the woods. In destroying the forests we are not only damaging the present, but are literally burning up the future.

Living forests provide us with wood material for all kinds of homes and industrial buildings. Forests provide no lumber for the saw-mill, no work for the workman, no business for the merchant, and no freight for the railway or steamship. The moral is that everyone should be careful with fire in the woods.

WHAT'S DOING ROUND THE WORLD

WHENCE ARE MATCHES?

A SECOND CANAL

THE LAZY LIZARD

It is being proposed that the American continent should be cut through again.

The present Panama Canal is used by an ever-increasing number of first in as to where the new canal should be cut, and the second as to whether a canal with locks or a sea-level channel is the better.

There is a possibility that, instead of using flint steel, a creature which looks like a worm but really is a degraded lizard whose legs and ears have faded away.

This degraded lizard lives in the huge nests of the "wasps" ant, and when it wishes to dice it simply puts out its tongue and flicks up a few ants.

That is no doubt a very easy way of getting a good dinner, but we have little doubt that the lizard has lost its legs and become such a poor, miserable object through the lazy life it has led.

Organs which are not used waste, and in time vanish like the legs of a whale; and the degenerate lizard is a good example of the dangers of sloth. It would be a matter of greater and happier interest to-day if it and its ancestors had had to run about and hunt for insects, as most respectable lizards do.

CHILD PRODIGIES

Just now in England following on the rise to fame of Daisy Ashford and various other child prodigies, Sir Marmaduke Craig has delivered a warning message to those parents who seek to overdevelop the minds of their children with a view to emulating these rascals.

Lecturing on "The Healthy Mind" at the Institute of Hygiene, Sir Marmaduke declared that little Marmaduke might be able to paint pigs before he is three, but he may not have the intelligence to feed them when he is thirty-three.

And here it may be added that Etheldreda can play heavenly music at the age of five, the chances are that she will play like nothing on earth by forty years.

"Diseases" go side by side for more important than education, which can be acquired at almost any time. Intensive pressure in early youth uses up the energy which should be spread over many years."

This, he added, could be observed in all animal and vegetable life. The quicker a thing develops the quicker it dies.

HOUSEWIFE'S USEFUL TABLE

One pint of butter equals a pound. One quart of sifted flour equals a pound.

One large pint of sugar equals a pound.

Nine large eggs equal a pound.

A pint of currants, fifteen ounces.

A pint of raisins, twelve ounces.

A pint of bread crumbs, eight and three-quarter ounces.

A pint of salalines, nine ounces (lightly measured).

A pint of currants, ten ounces.

A pint of brown sugar, thirteen ounces.

A pint of maple sugar, broken into crumbly pieces, equals one pound and four ounces.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The real heights in human life are the heights of self-sacrifice and loving service on behalf of others.

the fields white unto harvest or to repentence of sin. In the hurried days that follow we can hardly expect to be exact as to the actual figures, but probably no fewer than a score came and went at the various towns opened in the course of the Sunday campaign. A Hallelujah Chorus indeed! (BY CABBLE.)

Zurich, Saturday.

Two wonderful days have just concluded with the General, who had a marvellous reception. Thousands of Salvationists and friends participated, and numbers carried God's Word and Books to the people. The General was in jubilant spirits, but a little weary, having been on the cars the whole of Saturday and delivered over 1000 right different sermons. The crowds seemed to grow bigger and more friendly each time. Men and women laughed, cried, and cheered him, and the general ovation was ample; and Salvationists seemed filled with joy unspeakable.

On Friday, five cars were covered, the last being stopped at St. Gallen. A brilliant day was appropriately closed with sixty-two of the men sent to an enlarged meeting in the Town Hall. In the evening the General addressed a representative audience upon whom the General and others told the claims of the Healthen work.

The next morning young men and women, to whom The General's Appeal was specially directed.

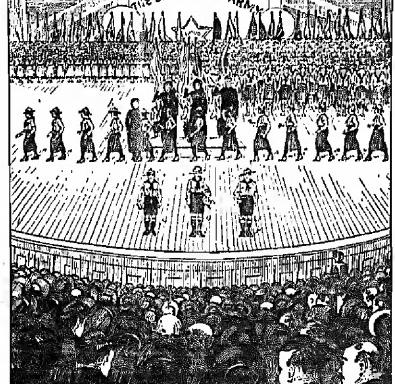

Rising at 4 a.m., the General set out early to make his rounds to fetch a young woman with whom he had commenced dealing himself, but the Holy Spirit showed him he ought to get rid of her. Then he slept.

The General was delighted with the people of the villages, whom he has come to know and speak in words that even seemed to him old and young, good and bad alike.

Zurich, Sunday.

The conquering church of the Campaign was proclaimed throughout the Sunday. Two remarkable meetings have concluded, one a third is just commencing, with every sign of success. The General's Journals in the Holmox meeting and ninety-six in the Missionary gathering in the afternoon. They have been a hearty welcome to Commissioner and Mrs. Booth-Tucker.

The General was very happy in his introduction of Mrs. Booth-Tucker. Throwing casting to us a stamp in the hand, nevertheless there was already a place for her in our hearts, she said, because much was known of her thirty

The Review of the Life Saving Guards and Scouts by Commissioner and Mrs. Richards and Major Mary Booth at the Young People's Demonstration in the Massey Hall, Toronto.

HUMAN CO-OPERATION

The injunction, "be filled" means that which we can do. Therefore we ought to play our part... The Spirit is here waiting... Oh, how we wait! He is unceasingly near to every heart of man, longing, wooing, drawing, stirring, filling each soul as far as He can whenever there is room to receive Him. This is the Spirit who at this moment waits, longing to raise, inspire, purify and empower us as He has never done before.—W. T. Davison, D.D.

WELCOME TO AMERICA

COMMISSIONER AND MRS. BOOTH-TUCKER RECEIVE HEARTY GREETINGS IN MEETING PRESENTED OVER BY COMMANDER EVA BOOTH—SUNDAY CAMPAIGN IN NEW YORK

PAST and present Commanders of the Salvation Army throughout the United States met on the platform of the Memorial Hall recently, (says the New York "World," Oct. 1), while Commander Evangelist Booth, our beloved Leader of the happy, fruitful re-inspiration of to-day, welcomed Commissioner Booth-Tucker, his Leader of the perhaps more strenuous seed sowing yesterday, who with Mrs. Booth-Tucker was greeted by Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller with a formal offer of co-operation of all "whatever little wheels" alike of the Salvation Army.

Commissioner Booth-Tucker, in his address, paid a touching tribute to the memory of the General. "You will all remember," he said, "that the command was shared by the dear General, and how nobly and beautifully he stood forth! I only professed to be second in the work he carried on while God spared his life."

The General performed this office to perfection, but his did very well. On behalf of the Men's Social Department he paid tribute to the pioneer work in this branch which had been done by Commissioner Booth-Tucker, his director during his term in America.

Commissioner Estill declared that the whole of the Eastern Territory was a unit in honoring a hearty welcome to Commissioner and Mrs. Booth-Tucker on Sunday. Large audiences gathered at the Memorial Hall in the morning and the Town Hall, afternoon and night. There were thirty-six cookers and all the usual apparatus. On Sunday afternoons the Memorial Hall, Commissioner and Mrs. Booth-Tucker were warmly welcomed by Commissioner and Mrs. Estill and several hundred Officers from greater New York, who were present for the service. A list of rich hospitality was experienced as both of the distinguished visitors called from their varied and rich experiences. In applying spiritual advice to all who assembled.

"Many things, it is delightful, it is God-honoring; it is inspiring, and God is to be thanked for it. It is a deep religious instinct of the people, as witnessed from village to village and town to town, is true, refreshing, the truth of the Word of God. Among the enthusiasm of our Soldiers, the lovely songs of the children, the floral but most of all the opportunity it gives to the young people to meet and associate with their spiritual leaders," the General replied.

IMPORTANT STAFF CHANGES

(Continued from Page 8) Territorial Commanders at this junction will be hailed with interest by the Army who, however, will be gratified as it once more shows the unshakable principle which is so great a characteristic of the Army's work, that women can hold the highest positions of trust in the Army.

THE GENERAL'S JOURNAL

The Dean said the few thousands "are ruled every day, drink" and that non-abstainers may live as long as abstainers. However, of an incident of a break of temperance in Rhodes' years ago. After a certain time, Resident Commissioner telegraphed Cape Town that the disease had completely stamped out. But in that implying he had to admit that he could never be dead! The salutary cured itself.

Mondays, 11th.—Yesterday, Sunday, open the day—three hundred and about five hundred London Bushmen and some of their Officers at Victoria Hall (Notting Hill).

This host made against us, especially affecting many of the men, the abnormal conditions prevail, it is not so easy to suspend activities. A full day. Not perhaps such powerful influences in some similar gatherings, but good. The men responded to the truth, and the Lord helped us put before them a high standard of Duty and Service and Love. Men, the singing very upliftingly.

The British Army is inspiring, and now we make a ministry in themselves. At the end of 1920 there were nearly 300,000 (including 4,000 Junior Bandmen) in the United Kingdom, and 12,000 (including 2,300 Junior Bandmen) in India. Praise the Lord for us!

Important talk with Captain while drinking tea, and later with Jivandandas (Colonel, India). Here too, who are we? We are for God. To God—sought out, but thankful to God. For goodness and for the All-in-all.

The Lord is the great warrior, the love and faith of His people, the love and the unshakable spirit of man consecrated to His service.

THE WAR CRY

PROMOTED TO GLORY

Envoy Eason, Long Pond.

After an illness of four years Envoy Eason of Long Pond has been promoted to higher service.

During his illness our comrade was not able to go outside, and much of time was spent in the suffering and intense, and when asked by the Corps Officer a few days before he passed away if all were well, he cheerfully answered "Yes."

Since the passing of the Corp at Long Pond the Envoy was a worker and filled the position of Sergeant-Major for a number of years. He was a tower of strength to the Officers, especially in what much opposition was conducted by Staff-Captain Tilley from St. John's.

At night a memorial service was held, the speakers including the Sergeant-Major, Captain Tilley, Major, Lieutenant, Dr. George.

The Local Officers of the city were privileged to attend one of the Services and were undoubtedly greatly cheered and encouraged by the inspiration given by Major and Captain.

In the local Saloons a number of Officers gave expression to their feelings regarding the farewell of Commission-

AN EASTERNER WRITES

Cingalese Lieutenant Tells His Story of Wayward Sinsinga.

This is the testimony of a Salvation Army Lieutenant in Ceylon, He writes:

"From my childhood I was brought up under the care of The Salvation Army by my grandfather, a retired Army Officer, resident in Ceylon. Owing to my own carelessness, however, I fell into bad company and only searched for pleasure in the world and its wealth. It was all in all. I joined His Majesty's army during the war and became a confirmed drunkard.

My one thought when on duty was, 'Get me out of here till we meet again.'

"Get me out of here till we meet again,' was sung, after which the Commissioner and Mrs. Richards shook hands with every Officer and bade them a personal 'good bye.'

er and Mrs. Richards. Warm and affectionate tributes were paid to them by Officers of all ranks and all expressed their admiration and appreciation of the Commissioner's capable and energetic leadership, and their appreciation of his kindness of heart, his love of the Army, and his devotion to The Army's highest ideals.

Mrs. Richards was of course, included in that, who was but special mention made of her services to the Army, and the great love she had for the Army.

which the larger tools would be useless.

"Then," said she, "this tool is as valuable as the larger ones to you, and it works quite as important."

"That is so," said the carpenter.

"So it is with me," brightly rejoined the little servant. "Very fond of mine, simple, I know, but I have my port to do, and it makes me precious to me, just as those who have great talents."

The servant girl did not answer immediately, but turning to the tool basket she took up a nail and a hammer, saying, "Sister, you have no use for a little tool like this."

"Oh, yes!" said the carpenter, "that will often help me through a job for you."

She was right, and the carpenter felt himself silenced. Think of the servant when tries to discourage you. Say to yourself, "I'm a little thing, but I have a work to do." Then ask God to show it you, and help you to do it. He will.

"After a year and a half I returned to Ceylon, where I met old and new Salvation Army friends, who spoke to me very kindly and tried to get me to give my heart to God. To their dismay I refused, but in anything they only prayed the harder for me, and eventually in a meeting in January, 1921, God took it out of my hands. Although I had felt I was beyond redemption, I went in faith to Him and He pardoned all my sins. Not long afterwards I gave up myself fully to God and now I am a Lieutenant of The Salvation Army.

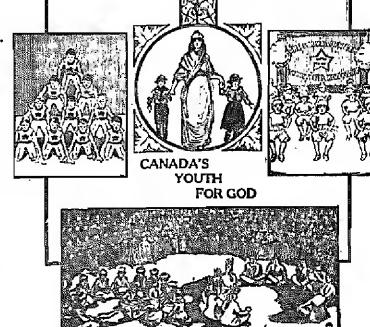

"One great fact I have found to be true: that Christ can evoke a dinner to the uttermost. No one in this creation is beyond His redeeming power once more. The life and death of our beloved Master and the experiences of His saints proclaim with a voice of thunder in every land that God is able to save to the uttermost."

WHO KISSED ME?

A Slim Officer, herself trained in a home of refinement and wealth, but who had given up her life for service to the poor, was taken up from the Sin Quarters to the early morning prayer meeting. In the doorway of a public-house she noticed something that looked like a huge bundle, but drawing nearer she espyed what it was: a slim, round, good-stomached, bruised, dirty and repulsive-looking girl.

Looking at her as she lay, the Officer knelt down by her side and drew the head of the unconscious girl on to her knee so that she might examine her more closely. As she gazed into her face, in spite of the terrible marks made by her sin, she saw something that was beautiful. In this apparently dissolute girl, an innocence, an overwhelming love, kissed her on the cheek. The girl opened her eyes, and in a dreamy voice asked: "Who kissed me? No one has kissed me like that since my mother died."

Instead of making one in the congregation that morning the Officer took the girl in her Quarters, where she cleaned and fed her. The kiss of love, and her practical aid, conquered, and the nice time drunkard became a uniformed Salvationist.

Love Lost and Regained

Being the Story of the Bitter Path Trodden by One Who Became a Drink-slayer in Spite of Religious Aids—Read how She was Won Back.

MANY waters cannot quench love." Thus sang the Wise Man, and the quotation of these words to a gathering of outcasts, one Sabbath morning, in Glasgow, caused a long-dormant chord to vibrate in the heart of one in that crowd.

Down and Out

"I knew that I was down and out," she told us, half sobbing, "and I had always loved to hear The Salvation Army sing. So I used to listen to the singing and then to go away and die."

But those words did not stir the song. They struck the dominant chord of Hope. True, it only began feebly to pulsate, for it was a long way down, hidden beneath the super-imposition of much that made for total despair; but that stirring within refused to be silenced; it simply could not be stilled thereafter, for Hope was coming to her own at last.

At long last? Ay! it had been long seeming; until it was almost at the very last; at the very end of all things; as though it had seemed to the worldly observer that the potent waters would drown the woman's undoing, would succeed in quenching both love and life itself. At last? It was almost too late, for she was seeking a way out of her misery, and not a hopeful way, when the sweet music of that vibrant chord began.

How sad is the story! As I heard her tell it, my heart swelled with a deep pity that was all pain; then, as I saw how she revelled in the glory which it gave to God to repeat the cruel history, I was caught in a rapture which was nearly as absolutely painful. But, Oh! it was a pathetic story to hear from a woman's own lips.

A Bitter Night
Through the bluster of a sleety night I had come to Bridgeton Cross, Glasgow, famous for the multiplicity of roadways converging on that centre, which holds within its sphere two theatres, as well as a Salvation Army Hall. Cutting through a mass of a queue, the head of which was drawn into the paybox of one of the entertainment houses, I approached the Army Hall, whence came the sound complete, saw the poor soul in the hands of the law repeatedly, and her friends fell away from her one by one. Then the theory of self-restraints and self-control, with its well-established virtue, which is a characteristic of her nature, and she became an outcast, living in common lodging-houses when not in jail.

Released from Prison

One cold morning she was released from prison for the third time in two weeks when a constable offered to introduce her to something which would warm her chilled body, something better than was sold in public-houses and which could be obtained when licensed places were closed. It was deluded spirit! Oh, the deadly effect of this discovery! She had lost her bearing and was dying on her feet when a doctor ordered her removal to the Poorhouse Infirmary. And there, given up as a hopeless case, a dying woman, she recalled the words quoted from the Bible:

"Can that be true?" she cried in her despair. "I have spurned the love of a husband and the love of God itself. Oh! if it be true, and if He will only spare me I will get saved!"

Sought Forgiveness

"I cried," she told us in The Army Hall, "but I had no hope that my cry would be heard by God. I sought and obtained my husband's forgiveness, for I was sure I was dying. I struggled with doubt until the bed shook. The Evil One presented all the evil powers of thought and suggestion, and all Hell advised me, but I was enabled to make my awful confession, and to call for mercy in spite of my sin, and then—let me to God who spared me to my soul! Moreover, it pleased Him to spare me, and although I had to live for two months in a model lodging-house with two hundred and fifty women, He kept me with a pencil which never failed me to write His name, with the result that he quickened his courage, Christian-like.

Just after she was married illness and surgical operations so reduced her that a doctor prescribed tonic wines. Who could have guessed that the sister would awaken within this budding young woman an awful craving for stimulants? Yet, but who can be sure it will not at any time? Despite her religious aids, however, the latent desire for strong drink grew and grew within the young wife; doubts regarding God's love and ability to aid her multiplied; she lost her appetite for Bible study, and prayer became a mere uselessness.

Years of struggle in which the husband soon found that the hideous hold of the monster grew over more

A SPLENDID APPOINTMENT

The Adjutant had said: "Come into the porch, before the play begins to open the evening Meeting, when Mr. E. S. Young, man who has done so much against the law, will speak to you." "Step inside," said the Adjutant to the stranger.

"Afraid I can't," came the reply. "I've an appointment!" "For what time?" "Two o'clock eight?" "We shall be finished by that time. Come instead until then! The man came instead.

Just on the stroke of eight the Officer was leaving the Reception Room to return to the platform when his eye fell on the clock. He remembered the young man. He quickly looked over the audience, and then to locate his man, he glanced at his opposite, and the Adjutant said: "There is a young man here." It was the one who was rising, and came forward, his hand extended, but not to the Adjutant. He was greeting a young lady who also rose from the near end of the assembly. She was the other party to the thirty-third appointment, and they had met at the penitent form!

LOST OPPORTUNITY

Forty years ago a young man it college became converted and dedicated as a result of reading a series of tracts by The Army which were dropped by The Army. When I first heard of this I was greatly interested. I went back to school as a student. Prayer Meetings were held every week, and many students, mostly of whom sought Christ with a fervor which I have never seen equalled. Afterward I was called by God to throw in his lot with The Salvation Army. Soon afterward he was called by God to throw in his lot with The Salvation Army. In his heart of obedience he allowed himself to be born again to walk with Jesus, with the result that he quickly became like a shining Christian.

One Sunday morning this young man, now a lecturer at a famous university, left the Hollies Tabernacle, the Sheffield Citadel, and, musing the lost opportunities of forty years, recommended himself to God's service.

No sooner that team started while this testimony was being given and that it seemed as if every honest audience drew near to the speaker to surround her with the robes of loving comradeship in her sight for the right.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

This is our constant peril—the secondary usurps the place of the primary and the primary is apt to be forgotten. The inferior things take the place of the greater, the trivial thing, the common, the vulgar, the cheap, the familiar assumes its everywhere. By those who have unashamed. Moreover, he had sufficient understanding of the nature of the human heart to know that he had bettered in politics, failing which his pronostication was in error. This they did, and while the Salvatoles profited by their free and kindly tutition, and learned to speak Tamil like a native, his dark-skinned friends however, by their asceticism, were the Salvatoles made under such severe conditions. The Colonel and his wife, who also speaks Tamil fluently, have always continued to converse in the language when the fancy seized them.
